NEWARK and Sherwood Homes has been awarded with its ninth consecutive Gold Medal in the Royal Society of Prevention of Accidents (RoSPA) Health and Safety Awards. The housing provider was recognised for its ongoing commitment to health and safety precautions after being judged on categories such as leadership and workforce involvement.

The internationally-renowned RoSPA Health and Safety Awards promote the prevention of accidents in the UK and worldwide and honour companies which are committed to improving health and safety management systems.

Andrew Dewberry, assistant director, asset and development services and Lynn Clayton, chair of the board, at Newark and Sherwood Homes, were presented with the award during a ceremony at Hilton Birmingham Metropole hotel on Wednesday, July 4, 2018.

Rebecca Rance, chief executive at Newark and Sherwood Homes, said: "It is fantastic to be recognised by RoSPA for the ninth year running for our ongoing commitment to health and safety. We set very high standards which are aligned with our core value of delivering excellence. It is important we maintain a safe environment and improve our safety performance each year, so that we can continue to provide excellent housing services for the local community."

Julia Small, RoSPA's head of qualifications, awards and events, said: "The RoSPA Awards are the most highly-respected in the health and safety arena, with almost 2,000 entrants every year, and allow organisations to prove excellence in the workplace, demonstrating a commitment to the wellbeing of not only employees but all those who interact with it."
